ABSTRACT

A computer system receives a description of a finite state machine including a temporal logic condition and generates code for emulating the described finite state machine. 20183814.doc

5